Bob:

First, the Citizens Project Breakfast next Tuesday is at the LeBaron Hotel at 314 W Bijou. It is guaranteed to be over by 8:30 am so you won't miss your class. Thanks again for coming to that, it will help me craft my request for a donation to the film festival.

Re Denver Pride:

Wow! All suggestions are great. 4 foot table is fine, It should fit in my Subaru. I'll bring a tent – maybe we can set up side by side to the community center tent if there's room. Brochures from Fine Arts Center are a great idea too. Hearthstone Inn brochures are another great idea. If we can take the big posters (we'll be gentle and a few smaller ones to we can deck out the booth nicely. We should also take any flyers we have at this time. I will work up a Girl Play hand out as well; and we should try to get info on any other booked films.

I'd like to be up there by about 9:00 am (the earlier the easier to find good parking) so Tom and I can pick you up at your place (where's that?) around 7:30 am. A friend, Nancy who is in Denver, helped out last year is on board for this year. She'll meet us there. She's a great sales person.

We should were our tee shirts too.

We should think about some kind of announcement that we are the only GLBT Film Festival this year with Denver not having one. Any ideas you have I'll work up on the computer. The more we have to create excitement the better we'll do.

I have a number of programs from last years festival to take as well (are there more we can get from Alma?)

Thank you for making this happen. I'm excited.

Joe

Joe: Linda said that we could share their table. Do we need our own? I have a 4 ft. folding one that fits in the back of a car, if that's ok. If you want a longer one, we can get one from All Souls. What time do you want to leave on Sunday the 26th? I'm going to see if we can get some brochures from the Fine Arts Center showing their location. They're colorful and professionally produced, so I think if we hand them out with our lavender flyers, they'll attract some attention. I'm also going to make up a flyer noting close in (within walking distance of the FAC) motels, eating establishments, etc. I'll also include "The Hearthstone Inn" although it might be a little pricey.

Where is the breakfast again? I have a PILLAR class at 9:30am that day, but think I can make both. It's on W. Cheyenne Rd. rpa

Great! Let's try to make it happen. Do you have access to a good 6 foot long table?

On another note, this is a reminder for the Citizens Project breakfast next Tuesday. It's at 7:30 to 8:30 am. I have you down and hope it's still a go for you. Let me know.

Joe: I have to talk with Linda at the Community Center on Tuesday (when she's back in the office), and see if they will have a table in Denver, and if we can share it with them...possibly splitting the cost? Also, I'll go up with you to Denver and help out if you'll drive. The posters turned out great. I'll get the remainders from Alma tomorrow as she will be leaving for San Fran shortly.

Let me know if that'll work.
